A prayer, based on Psalm 8, asking that we might live well as stewards of God's creation

Most excellent God, your glory so surpasses our knowledge and so transcends our understanding that we wonder about who we are and how we come to be. We study the cosmos and discover that our questions always outnumber our answers. As we give praise for the animals, the birds, the insects and the plants, we lament that even as we delight in them we destroy more than we discover and lose more than we can count. O most excellent God, help us to understand both your glory and our limits, that we might live well in your creation.

The Very Revd Dr Stephen Cherry, Dean of King's College, Cambridge
